Similarly, we will offer beer shares to our customers.
Maplewood Brewery & Distillery

Maplewood Brewery & Distillery was started by two home brewers and distillers whose hobbies spiraled into a passion. Starting with 5 gallon batches. They aim to bridge the gap between the craft beer and spirits worlds. The name Maplewood was chosen in honor the former village of Maplewood, where the brewery/distillery is located. The village of Maplewood was one of the outlying towns that survived the Great Chicago Fire, and its residents, largely immigrant builders, aided in rebuilding the city. The Maplewood area was eventually annexed by Chicago in 1889 to form the Logan Square neighborhood, which we think is pretty great.

Noon Whistle Brewing Co.

Noon Whistle believes that session beers reflect a lifestyle. The lower alcohol and strong, distinct flavor in our beers can be enjoyed all day with family and friends. It’s great to be able to enjoy delicious flavors and not fall off the stool. Many styles can be session and there is no limit. If you want us to put a number on it, 5% and under. Noon Whistle believes that enjoying a good beer is about enjoying life and its moments. This is one of the reasons why this brewery concentrates on session beers. Let us enjoy the time we have with our friends and families, make new friends along the way and have great memories of it all.

Temperance Beer Co.

It’s taken almost one hundred years, but Evanston can once again call itself home to a Temperance movement, but this time there’s beer. In fact, this one is all about the beer. Aside from that tiny detail, Temperance has always been about making life better in ways big and small. We think that’s a worthy goal, and one that only comes about by being open to the possibilities. It’s something we think about with the beers we brew and the things we do. (And when you join us, you will too.) Welcome to a new Temperance movement. Temperance Beer Company.

Ten Ninety Brewing Co.

Craft beer transforms four simple ingredients into something great. At Ten Ninety, we further this transformation to produce refreshing yet complex and challenging beers from unique ingredients and processes. As we reach beyond traditional combinations of water, malted grain, hops, and yeast, we are unapologetically proud to say that we brew extraordinary small batch beers meant to be thoughtfully enjoyed. Ten Ninety or “1.090” is the approximate measurement of Original Gravity for each of our flagship beers. In fact, our beers share this trait with most wines. A higher original gravity means our beers are more likely to compliment a fine dining experience in the same way. We find inspiration from flavor profiles and cultures the world over. Specific foods have inspired many of our beers and will drive our innovation in the future. We start with food and create a beer to pair with that food. It is subtle differences like these that differentiate us from the rest. Ten Ninety is Craft Beer Elevated.
